

The background illustration shows a young girl with brown hair and large, expressive eyes. She is wearing a dark blue headscarf and a blue dress with a yellow and green geometric pattern on the bodice and a wide, patterned belt. She is holding a long, colorful, patterned fabric strip. The setting is an interior room with a stone wall, a wooden bed with a patterned blanket, and a window with a decorative lattice. The text 'who stitched the stars' is visible at the top, and the title 'The Girl Who Stitched the Stars.' is centered over the girl.

The Girl Who Stitched the Stars.

By Shereen Malherbe and illustrated by Sarah Nesti Willard.

What is the illustrators name?

- Shereen Malherbe
- Sarah Malherbe
- Sarah Nesti Willard

Shereen Malherbe

What day was it at Noor's school?

- National Day
- Non-Uniform Day
- Eid Day

Why was Noor nervous?

- She didn't have time to stitch a new dress.
- She was sure none of the other children would be wearing a dress like hers.
- She didn't know what trousers to wear.

What clothes were important to Noor?

- Her school uniform.
- Her Palestinian dresses.
- Her favourite jeans.

What did Noor's clothes remind her of?

- The souk back in Palestine.
- Stitching the stars on her dress.
- Her celebrations and Eids.
- All of the above

How did Noor find the strength to be different?

- She remembered Allah could see and hear her.
- The angels were by her side.
- Being different made the best stories.
- All of the above.

Who else was wearing different clothes for Non-uniform day?

- Haris and Hannah
- The teacher and Hannah.
- Only Noor.

What is Palestinian embroidery called?

- Sewing
- Tatreez
- Dress-making

What new strength did Noor learn ?

- How to talk in front of the class.
- How to make friends.
- Learning about each other makes the world a better place.

Activity Suggestions.

- Have a go at tatreez.
- Look at some Palestinian dress designs.
- Draw a picture of clothes that mean something to you.
- Research different clothes around the world.
- Write and then share a story about why your clothes are important to you.

Meet the Author

- Book an author
visit hello@shereenmalherbe.com
- Order your books from your local bookstore or enquire at info@beaconbooks.net

